of meeting, except with song numbers and musical numbers."

The show as a whole, is a good entertainment.

THE PICTURE THEATRES

"The Woman God Changed" And Tom Mix in "Olympia"

He follows her to the tropics to seek her for his master only to fall in love with the woman himself. This is one of the strong qualities in this "Woman God Changed." It is a Bananas! Comediette picture which comes to the Olympia Theatre this Saturday, E. K. Lincoln is the detective and Sami Lewis is the woman. The support is eminently satisfactory.

Tom Mix, the fast star, is leaving in the Olympia Theatre on Saturday night to lead the last chapter of the celebrated May Brand. It is a story of twisted and tangled lives filled with sexual action. The star is right, especially when it comes to Mix, inasmuch as he does not figure much in cowboy although associated with ranch life and doing some daring stunts in pursuit of vengeance in the West.

"The Story of Hope Eternal" And "Molly O' At The Castle

Jack Hoxie's "The Story of Hope Eternal" will be developed in the Olympia on Saturday night. It is a story which gives an opportunity to show his real ability as a dramatic actor. While he does many of his scenes riding through the desert, he is sharp enough a story teller that in a great part of the picture he must show his ability in a highly dramatic role. He is excellent in this picture and is supported by very strong casts.

The Sunday special attraction at the Olympia will be the melodrama picture "Gold Dust" which tells the story of a young political refugee who with his sister and a faithful old maid escape to America. They come to the protection of his father's employers. How he carries on for himself a brilliant name with very great success and the advances made against him that will bring him to the goal for which he strives add contribute to making the picture a most noteworthy one in every respect.

"What Do Men Want" Features The Comedy Program

The Comedy Theatre announces "What Do Men Want" as its feature attraction for next Thursday night. It is a story of a typical small town life and small town people yet in this powerful drama as in all her pictures she not only supplies the full measure of entertainment but also offers a moral lesson that is applicable to people of all classes. "Men Like Women" is a genius in capturing unusual family situations and the weaknesses of men and make wonderfully clear a woman's conception of what men want. The story is told in the simple words and touches exceptionally bright by its simplicity often touches the "right chord" in every man and makes him think the things that are really worth while.

J. L. Prughing in "The Ten Billion Dollar Man" will be the star of the Comedy Saturday.

On Sunday the feature will be Jack Hoxie in "Devil Dog Dawson," one of the best dramatic pictures of the year. In this he plays the rôle of a man who is determined to find his son, who has been lost to the part of a highly charged play in releasing the hero, "Devil Dog" Dawson, from a dangerous trap which he has set for himself and his son. The entire remainder of the pictured story from this point onward takes its logical and dramatic trend from the service performed by the much maligned police force.

"Act of Hearts" And "God's Crucible" Star Pictures

"The Face of the World" will be offered at the Star Theatre this Saturday evening. It is a story of the individualities of a young married couple and of many thrilling adventures among which may be mentioned the wrecking of a freight train motor car and the burning of a three-story building.

On Sunday Lou Chaney will be seen in "The Face of Heart." The story itself is the result of the misguided attempt of a group of reformers to rid the world of men who have proved themselves to be incorrigible. The only female member of the group is played by Beatrice Lovell and she is quite as fanatical as the men, until she finds that the story is one of selflessness. Through which many of the members discover that their aims were not so good after all.

"God's Crucible" will be featured at the Star next Thursday. The story tells of a girl who follows her religious teacher, Winona, to escape his unscrupulous and timid and the show-capped grandeur of the Canadian Rockies. When Winona leaves, the girl is left alone. Eddie Lockwood, one of the most popular stage players, plays the part of "Alfred" who is a woman who follows her forces and who follows her to the center. He himself is imprisoned in Siberia but escapes and lives far for many years. Eddie Lockwood and the girl who have betrayed him in this adverse dramatic power and tenacity this rôle is closely allied to that of "Strong" in "Till We Meet Again." Eddie Lockwood was making famous.

"A Child For Sale" And "The Arabian Night" Star Pictures

"A Child For Sale" will be presented at the Lincoln Theatre this Saturday. This is a story of condemnation of the childless. The girl's condemnation of the present day exists real presenting the east includes John Barrymore, Gladys Leslie and Creighton Hale. The cast includes Eddie Lockwood, Eddie Sothern, Eddie Corden, Ruth Sullivan, etc. It is the first picture which is the dramatic form of the latest news item. Today we hear of the unscrupulous landlords. It is the kind of a picture which will not fail to interest the public. It is when the girl's theory is that it is great deal of a story that will do great deal toward alleviating the horrors of urban rents.

On Sunday this movie will present

AN EXPLANATION

In reply to the many inquiries and criticisms with reference to our editorial last week upon the caption of "Where Are Those Jobs?" we wish to state that it is fully true that we did not serve when we said that of the four hundred jobs the Governor had at his disposal, four of said jobs had been awarded to Negroes.

Having been called upon by an "enthusiastic reader of The Argus" to tell through these columns what four jobs are now being held by the Negroes that properly come under the four hundred patronage jobs, we wish to candidly state that we have reference to three members of the Board of Censors of Lincoln University and one at the Industrial Hall at Tipton, Mo.

Of course the three members of the Board of Censors, Lincoln University, are all Negroes; properly speaking, do not come under the head of "jobs." Eliminating those three, it only leaves one at Tipton, Mo. so far as we know.

We make this explanation for the benefit of those who have inquired of us expressing their confidence in us.

We wish further to state that we have no desire to "swell the list" of Negro appointments in favor of the Governor, by a misstatement of facts. We believed at the time that the Negro had not been given a fair share of the State's patronage at the hands of the Governor, and we know now, by every rule of the game that we have not.

"LINK" HAS BAD HIS CHANCE

We have been much in our criticism of the Republican Senate for their failure to confirm Henry Lincoln Johnson as Receiver of Funds for the District of Columbia. This criticism was based upon out belief that Link met with the same fate that any other Negro would have met.

However, since the charges against him were sufficient to create a doubt in the minds of some as to his honesty and integrity, let President Harding nominate another race man whose character is built upon a more solid foundation. We can quite assure that the majority of the colored people of the country who know Link will admit that his selection was a poor one, yet they would rather see him appointed than to lose the place to the next man.

Now that Link has been turned down, it is hoped that he will not worry his friends about a job and get out and make good his boast that he is able to make a living by practicing his profession as a lawyer, and give some one else a chance.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

St. Louis offers business opportunities as no other city in the country. Being centrally located, with large railroad facilities as well as water power, there is no better place.

The St. Louis Negro Business Association is making an effort to induce more Negroes to enter the business activities of the city, and are trying to encourage those who are already in the business of professional life. Their efforts seem to be putting in the right direction and those who are interested in the welfare of the race from a commercial and business standpoint join hands with the present efforts and push St. Louis to the front.

POSSIBILITIES OF A RACE

Who can set the bounds of a race, the possibilities of achievement? Who can say that they're black or white, yellow or brown?

The mind is the shadow of God, and no man can possibly make until it receives the mind of his Creator to understand him. Who knows but that the man yet in the jungles of Africa is to come forth and teach the world, the mind of the Lord is reflected in the arts and sciences of nature?

There is something wonderful about the progress of the race, called backward faces of the world. A man or a child coming to this country from the darker continents soon grasps, and in most cases outstrip the American people who boast of their civilization despite the natural as well as other handicaps.

We see a striking example of the progress of a race in the Negroes of America who, despite the handicaps and obstacles made possible by racial prejudice, has satisfied all his former masters along all lines where open competition has been legal. To the thinking people of the nation, the Negro's progress in America is nothing short of a miracle.

In a recent editorial the St. Louis Post Dispatch speaks of the miracle of man and race in a discussion of the rapid rise in the scales of civilization by the people of Japan. The same is true of all the backward races of the world today when given a chance. Japan is the aggressor. But what will happen when China awakes? The possibilities of a race - who can tell?

The Post Dispatch fails to see with regard to Japan.

To find in the story of the white race a civilization comparable to that of Japan when Marquis Okuma, who was reported to have died last Friday at the age of 83, was a young man, we should have to go back probably to the dark ages that followed the fall of Rome. It has taken our shining race dozens of generations to advance from that crude epoch to its present goal. In Japan this gulf has been bridged in the life of a single man.

When Japan's War Premier was a youth his country was steeped in the sleep of the ages. It was ruled by a Shotgun through a system of clan government. It's religion was characterized by the mutual distrust of the nobles, anti-intellectualism, superstition, ignorance. The learning of the nation was confined to the Chinese classics. An embryo had been raised against Occidental civilization and progress.

Then Perry came and implanted the germ of discontent in the spirit of young Japan. Against the tradition of his fathers, against the institutions of the day and his people's instilled-hatred of change and progress, Okuma turned his eyes to the great world beyond Nippon and set his mind deliberately to the business of learning, of clearing out the cobwebs of centuries and teaching his countrymen. Thus he rose to leadership in Japan's breakneck race to wipe-out the woes of her multitude.

The world is through gasping at his prodigious achievement. World politics has been revolutionized. A new empire has arisen out of the East, in the van of other empires. It is the miracle of a race. Yet unless it is the miracle of a man. The life of Okuma, the span across 10 centuries of mental evolution, is a staggering exhibit for the Anglo-Saxon-bourbon whose steady and puffing efforts have not availed to keep him abreast of his own time.

Let those of the earth who look to the past for their inspiration look studiously upon the recent past of Japan.

When Gypsy Smith gets "pinched" for money he will even look to Colored people.

The name of Marcus Garvey appeared forty-two times in a recent issue of the Negro Word of which Mr. Garvey is editor. Some golf-boating, eh?

Let us prove to the world that we are living for something, rather than ourselves.

When you have time, think seriously about what you are really doing that spells "progress for the race."
